Paul T. Murphy

December 4, 1964-February 7, 1986

We would like to honor Paul T. Murphy by reprinting the 1986 yearbook dedication for the 15th year anniversary of his passing.

On February 1, 1986, Paul collapsed in Towers Hall as a result of a congenital heart disease, with which he was born. He lapsed into a coma, and passed away on February 7. To his parents, Daniel and Kathleen, and his brothers and sisters, Kevin, Brian, Kathleen, Mary Ellen, Nancy, and Eileen, we offer you our sincerest condolences, and say thank you for sharing Paul with us. He will live forever in our hearts.

As a Media Communications student at FSC Paul T. Murphy contributed a great deal to the college. He was more than just an active part of the Media department. He was President of the Class of '86, as well as a Black & Gold Orientation leader, sports editor of the DIAL, and a member of SGA. But above all that, he was a friend, and a very special one at that! He was, and still is, an inspiration to us all. Paul touched a lot of lives in more ways than he'll ever know.

There seemed to be something magic about Paul. He had a special power which allowed him to be close to people. That special power is called love. The love he shared with his family and friends could be seen in the way he lived. He was always willing to help. If you needed a smile he would start in with his "Rowdy Roddy" imitations. If you needed to be serious, Paul was all ears.

At Paul's memorial, "The Greatest Love of All" was sung by all present. Some of the lyrics in that song represent Paul's life:

"I decided long ago never to walk in anyone's shadow; if I fail, if I succeed, at least I lived as I believe, no matter what they take from me, they can't take away my dignity..."

Paul did live as he believd and he succeeded. Although his life was cut short, Paul lived a life full of love and enthusiasm. He had a right to be proud and we are proud also. The words of John F. Kennedy call up the memory of Paul's positive and enthusiastic outlook on life, and remind us that we would do well to emulate him. "Some men see things as they are and say why. I dream things that never were and say why not."

Christa Corrigan McAuliffe

September 2, 1948-January 28, 1986

We would like to honor Christa Corrigan McAuliffe by reprinting the 1986 yearbook dedication for the 15th year anniversary of her passing.

Christa Corrigan McAuliffe grew up in Framingham and received her Bachelor's Degree from Framingham State College in 1970. She lived in Concord, N.H. where she taught history. It was her interest in students that led her to apply for the position of first teacher in space. In the final competition, Christa explained her hopes for the program. "I want to de-mystify NASA and space flight," she said. "The astronauts are not really connecting with the average student in the classroom. I want students to see and understand the special perspective of space and relate it to them."

Christa quickly earned the love of the nation with her enthusiasm and zest for life. She was a pioneer in every sense of the word. People waited anxiously for Christa to teach from space; she was going to get her chance to "humanize the technology of the space age."

Everyone's hopes were shattered in the tragic explosion of the space shuttle Challenger. Christa and the six other astronauts on board were killed 75 seconds into their flight. A helpless nation watched in fear, anger, and disbelief.

Framingham State College suffered with the world. Christa had planned to speak at the graduation ceremonies in May. Great plans had been made for a welcome back ceremony. In one devestating moment, everything was changed; FSC had lost a hero.

Christa McAullife was a true hero. She was respected and admired by everyone. For Framingham State College students she was a promise of future accomplishments. She proved to all that "the sky is no longer the limit."

Christa's ideas and spirit will always live on at Framingham State College. As we are a part of her past, she will always be a part of our future. She has shown us how to "reach for the stars." Christa will always hold a special place in the hearts of the class of 1986. In the words of her former student Jennifer LaPierre, we wish we had had the chance to say, "Hi, Christa. We're with you all the way."

The 2001 Dial would like to reprint these 2 pages from 1998'and 1986's Dial because we feel they hold the same meaning now as they did then.

We've all gotten an email at some point during our lives. Here is one email that many of us may have recieved during our first year at F.S.C.:

Going to College is Easier than it Looks

You know, college can be a really scary thing. It seems like no matter how much you prepare yourself to leave all the people you love, it always comes back to slap you in the face. It's really scary when you are sitting in your dorm room one night, listening to the Eagles, "Sad Cafe," and thinking, wow, these lyrics really are powerful:

"Maybe time has gone, the faces I recall. But things in this life change very slowly, if they change at all..."

The scary part being that we've all been hit with change lately, and it doesn't seem to have come slowly at all. Do you remember the day that you left home? I'm sure that you do. But I'll bet that what you remember even more clearly, were the days in the week before you left, you know, the days you spent getting addresses and phone numbers and trying to say goodbye to everyone you have loved for as long as you can remember. Do you remember standing by your best friend's car one night, after midnight, trying to sum up the meaning of the friendship you'd manage to maintain through thick and thin for four years? Do you remember how hard that was, to think how to say goodbye to that person? It was nearly impossible, wasn't it, to give them that one last hug and turn around and walk back inside. I'll bet part of what you remember was the night before you left, kissing your boyfriend or girlfriend goodbye one last time, just knowing that you'd turn around and walk back inside was almost motivation enough not to leave. Stepping back to take one last look at the person you love--it's scary. And you go, and you promise yourself you won't find someone new. You won't ever replace your friends. You'll never fall in love again. It's really crazy what can happen when you mean for them to. You get to a new place full of strangers, you meet people who forget you, you forget people you meet, but sometimes, you come across some extraordinary people. They have tears to shed too. They left people behind. They are in love with that girl or guy back where they used to live, and they all want someone to talk to.

So you talk. Talk is good. You form bonds you never thought that you would form. You call your old friends and tell them about your new ones. Sometimes, they don't understand. Sometimes, they hurt your feelings. Sometimes, everyone is a little bit jealous. You miss your boyfriend. Or your girlfriend. One day, you're sitting in a park, thinking about that stuff you really didn't want to leave, and a stranger sits down near you. Sometimes that person stays a stranger. Other times, you talk to him. Or you talk to her. Sometimes you experience things you never wanted to happen. Sometimes you are interested in someone who isn't that person back home. Sometimes college is really complicated. Sometimes you stay together. Sometimes you break up. Sometimes you think that you have done the wrong thing by coming so far away from home. And, sometimes, when you start thinking like this, it's time to make a change. So when this happens, you sit down, put the Eagles in the stereo, turn on "Sad Cafe," and wonder if you still recall all the faces from your past.

Did You Know?

Horace Mann was named after the Honorable Horace Mann? He was the first secretary of the Massachusetts Board of Education.

The first Normal School building was on Lexington Common in Lexington, MA.

Peirce Hall should be pronouced "Purse" Hall.

Peirce Hall was named after the Rev. Cyrus Peirce. He was the first principal of the Normal School.

In 1859, women teachers received a monthly salary of $5.38 and a man's salary for the same position was $15.44,

In 1837, 60% of all Massachusetts teachers were women.

In 1837, there were only 6,000 teachers in Massachusetts.

The first Normal School opened July 3, 1839 and the class of 1840 had only 24 students.

The price for board in 1940 was $2.00 a week and tuition was free.

The hill Framingham State College was built on is called "Bare Hill."

Normal Hall was the first building on FSC's campus. The building no longer exists, but May Hall is standing on Normal Hall's former site.

Crocker Hall was named after Miss Lucretia Crocker, class of 1850. She was the first woman supervisor of the Boston Public Schools.

Framingham State College had two-year programs as well as four-year programs.

Room and board was only $300.00 a year in the year 1938 and that included free laundry.

In 1954, tuition was $100.00 a year and room and board cost $420.00.

The estimated cost of books for the 1939 school year was between $25.00 and $50.00.

The Commuter Survival Guide by Jay Newcomb, 1986

Frank Santos

2000

In the 1999-2000 school year, Frank Santos came once again, astounding the audience. Girls were singing and dancing, while the guys showed off their muscles in the "Mr. Universe" Pageant. Bobby Walmsley wowed the audience with his rousing rendition of "Condom Man."

Martha at the beginning...

Before the hypnosis...

Mr. Santos himself.

Martha towards the end!

Talking when he shouldn't.

Should he be considering a different line of work?

A "line" full of laughter.

A packed and stunned audience in the Forum.

A continuation of the "line" full of laughter.

IN MEMORY

OF BEN BRADLEY
October 18, 1981 - April 16, 2001

The following quotations are exerpts from the April 20, 2001 and April 27, 2001 Gateposts, composed by Joyce Kelly and Jamie Youlder.

"He was a quiet likeable kid with lots of friends. He was one of the nicest kids you would ever want to know."
-Ken Gouveia, Head Hockey Coach

"I'll miss his personality and his ability to click with everybody."
-Dan Richard, Teammate

"We want people to remember him, think of him, laugh at something stupid that might make them think of him."
-Erin Bradley, Ben's older sister

"I said to myself how could one so young have made so many people love him in so short a time? But clearly, he had."

The Ecumenical Center has finally been finished and the new windows were put in the College Center, but what about the gym? Will it be finished before we're eligible for social security? The gym was originally slated for construction ending in the Fall of 1999. At present, the exterior of the building has been finished, but the inside is slowly crawling along.

Ah, yes! The shuttle bus...running.

"Home Sweet Home"

Residence Life is an intregal part of many people's college experience. It is our home away from home, the places where lasting friendships are built, and our support system when we need help. Learning to live with other people is not an easy task, but Residence Halls make it fun.

SENIOR

Seniors kicked off the week starting with a boat cruise around Boston Harbor on the Spirit of Boston. The next day was graduation rehearsal and FSC's annual senior barbeque. Unfortunately, due to rain, the barbeque was held indoors. But everyone had just as much fun indoors as they would have had outside! To end the week, we went to a Red Sox game, and then on to....

CONGRATULATIONS

GRADUATES!

A Message from the President of the Student Government Association...

Graduation. A day of reward for those difficult days that we were sick, tired or just plain feeling lazy. A day of reward for those long walks up Maynard Hill on a bitter cold day in the middle of a harsh New England winter. A day of reward for those evenings when friends wanted to go out to see the latest movie but we stayed in and labored through a research paper. A day of reward for completing the general education goals that struck fear into our hearts on orientation day. Graduation day quite simply is a day of reward.

In attempting to define the class of 2001 for the Dial Yearbook this letter will avoid common graduation cliches such as "everything I needed to know I learned in Kindergarten" or "always wear sunscreen." If you are expecting something profound or remotely sappy please turn the page. Rather this will focus on what exactly it is Framingham State has prepared us for: the future.

Our lives will require the ability to deal with massive change. Perhaps the most important changes and contributions that our generaton will have within our collective reach is to expand opportunity, strenthen community, and broaden the scope of freedom. Presently we are entering into a world that faces major problems with environment, world peace, and poverty. To illustrate the point of how these major problems converge, consider this. The greatest threat that the United States will face in terms of national security in the next fifteen years is the lack of safe drinking water in the world.

As a civilization, it is time for our generation to engineer a new world. As college graduates we are truly a priveleged group. Considering that less than 1% of the world's population has any sort of college degree, we have an obligation to use this privelege to help others. For, if we as a class fail to do so, we will have ultimately failed as human beings and the results will have disasterous ramifications for the future.

To engineer a new world we must stop trying to apply outdated solutions to present probelms. We must begin to focus our solutions past the outdated approaches of Sir Isaac Newton. As a society we must begin to think historically and approach problems with the goal of win-win solutions. The questions that we must ask of ourselves in all aspects of our lives are threefold. First, does this action broaden the circle of opportunity for all? Second, does this action strengthen community? Third, does this action contribute to the freedom of the individual to make healthy choices?

At each major turning point in history a generation has raised itself to match the challeges that it is confronted with. I have faith that our generation will be no different. Our victories will be unlike those of our grandparents that occurred on the beaches of Normandy. Our victories may be subtle and there may not be great monuments constructed to commemorate them. No generation in the history of the Earth has faced the problems that confront us and no generation has been better prepared to solve them. A new World is within our reach and our struggle to attain a better life for humanity begins today. Graduation Day.

GREETINGS FROM PRESIDENT HEINEMAN

I am happy to send my very best wishes to the seniors, the graduating Class of 2001. As I told you on Graduation Day, something momentous has happened to you at Framingham State College. You have received an excellent liberal arts education. You have been introduced to the life of the mind, and your horizons have broadened. This publication, the Dial, should remind you of some of the ingredients of that momentous experience, from the classroom, to the cafeteria to the athletic fields. They say a picture is worth a thousand words. I hope that the pictures and words of this publication in the years to come will bring back many happy memories of your time at Framingham State College. In the words of a famous resident of outer space, "Live long and prosper."

CONGRATULATIONS, 2001 Graduates!!!

Dear Donielle, we are so incredibly proud of you it is hard to put into words. Remember when you started college and we were nervous whether you would like being away from home? And that first year you were coming home every month and one of us would meet you in the city or at the airport. Each year after that you became more and more independent and we would proudly tell everyone where you were going to college and that you didn't come home that often. Now you have graduated and can do anything you want. We love you very much and will support you in anything that you do.

You may not know all that the world has to offer
but we know that the world will be a better place
because of what you have to offer

you may not know which path to follow but we know that you will listen to your own heart
for it will never lie

you may question what you already have accomplished
but we know you will never doubt what you can do

as of all your tomorrows
open themselves to you never forget how proud
we are of you and
how much we all love you yesterday, today, and always.

May all your dreams in your heart come true

congratulations Lisa

Congratulations Kristi!
You had a dream, you went after it and you achieved success. Your family is SO very proud of you. You have certainly worked hard at being the very best that you can be. As we recall your childhood days when you were involved in cheerleading, sports, and dancing for 13 years, words cannot express the emotions we felt as we watched you perform and develop into whom you have become.

You will always be a very rich person, for true richness is measured in the many qualities you possess. As you go through different stages of life, you should be aware that there may be times when you feel scared and confused. But with your strength, dedication and values, your endeavors will always be successful.

We love you very much,
Mom, Dad, Brothers Kevin & Kurt

We're not sure what Julie Feener (top) was trying to do.

"Doin' the butt..."

"Ugh, what did I step in?"

"Do I look okay?"

"Inch by inch, row by row, we're gonna make that new gym grow, all it takes is a rake and a hoe, and a piece of fertile ground..." And what's up with that Christmas tree?

"Get away from me you icky frisbee!"

Inside the Space

My years at F.S.C. have been the most fun and interesting that I have ever had. I've learned so much academically and personally. I will miss F.S.C., and will treasure my short time in this wonderful place.

Welcome to Worcester! Dollar twenty-five please. The people whom I want to thank for making this long, strange trip possible are: my mother- I would have lost my sanity if not for her advice, my sister- she's my closest friend (even when she doesn't wanna!), Grandma- I wouldn't be here if not for her, Nicky- The best buddy a girl could have and she cooks too!!!, Amy- What up with G, Heartbreakers, thanks for good times and help, Sue- Tangy mushrooms rule forever!, Erica- The best roommate I never had! And a great friend!, Katie Conn- I STILL have the blackmail pics of u n Sue and I'm glad that we're still close, Katie MA Three strikes and you're out! No more trips to Connecticut!!, Robin- A great friend and the best advice book a person could have, Jaime-You've got a friend in me, Bobby- For finally getting me the tape, Kelly- For being so great and giving us 210% of what we needed, Shawna, Jeff, Akane, Amy, Sean, Dom, Jen, and Jen- For making a great major even better, Professors Hartwick, Abdelgadier, White, and Ambacher- For inspiring me to want to teach at the college level, Sue Sporte and Karen McCarthy- For being the most supportive staff, and to all of the faculty- We support you and respect you.
And, last but definitely not least, to my heart and soul, Dann- a beautiful person and the best boyfriend a girl could have. Sonny, you complete me.
LOOK WHAT I CAN DO! SUPERSTAR! Peirce Out!
-NICOLE LEVITRE =)

It's been a great four years for me here at F.S.C. It's been a lot of fun for me, I met a lot of...unique...people, made some friends, and yes, mom and dad, I did go to class and study hard! I began to find exactly who I was, and explore my full potential in SUAB, WDJM, The Gatepost, NBS, Newman Association, and SGA. I also learned that there was more to college that just studying. (There will be no interpreting this statement, thank you!) Even though I'll miss my underclassmen friends and the clubs I was in, I know it's time to go out and explore the world in full depth. I've had a good run here, and I wouldn't change a minute of it. Mum, Da, I can't thank you both enough for all that you've done for me while I've been in school. I know it's hard because I'm the oldest and the first bird out of the nest, so to speak, but you've both taught and given me so much and I'll never forget that. Mum, thanks for all the food you sent back to school with me and for the phone calls you would give me during the week, dishing the latest gossip and news from home. You are smarter than you think, Mum. Don't sell yourself short. Da, thanks for all the BC hockey games, my car and going with me to the ZZ Top/Lynyrd Skynyrd Concert because you didn't want me to go alone. You are truly a good and kind man, Da. I love you both very much. Emily, Kate, and Mary, you three always knew how to keep life at home...interesting on a daily basis! You'll all do fine in life. I love you three! Emily, good luck at Salem and in theatre, kid! DON'T DYE YOUR HAIR ANYMORE, PLEASE!!! Kate, thanks for all the delightful instant messages you sent me, at night, on my computer. Enjoy your senior year of high school! Mary, although you are in junior high right now, I have a feeling you'll be able to beat down any obstacles that come at you in life. Looking at you is like looking at a little reflection of myself. To my friends: Nicole, thanks for showing me the relaxed side of life. CM, thanks for sitting in on my show once in a while and making the Gatepost nights both interesting and philosophical at times. Sophie, good luck with the rest of your college career and life. I'll miss talking to you at lunch. Elsie, que pasa? Adios, amiga! It's been a lot of fun! My dad has a favorite quote from the movie The Paper Chase: "You come in here with a head full of mush and you leave thinking like a lawyer." To slightly rework this quote, I came in here with a head full of mush and I will leave here thinking like a radio dj, a journalist, a writer, a graduated English major, and, most importantly, a better human being. (For a little while after I graduate though, my brains will still be mush!) -AMY PADDEN B^)
"Destination anywhere, so far gone I'm almost there. Can't you see I can't deny I'm out of here like I'm on fire..."

Station (Dial's notes)

Attending Framingham State College has had a significant impact on my life. A few people have helped make my college years memorable and I would like to take this opportunity to thank them. I came here with the intention of being a teacher, but realized that teaching just wasn't for me. I realized that my true calling was in psychology. I have always wanted to help people, and psychology always interested me. When I changed majors, I was given a very good advisor, Dr. Donohue. While he may not remember names, he was good at keeping track of how many classes I had left and what I needed to take. I also had the good fortune to have him as my teacher, and while the class was tough, he made it fun to learn with his personal anecdotes.

Another professor that made an impact was Dr. Lidback. She really taught me a lot about geology. I already had an interest in the subject, but she made it all that much more interesting. I worked really hard in her class, and for the first time, my grade reflected the effort I made. She is a tough teacher, but she makes you want to learn and study hard.

Another professor that impacted me was Dr. Flanagan. Her class taught me a lot about the psychology of children. Her teaching style was different; she made classes fun to attend and learning interesting. She had a big influence on me and what I want to do after graduation. I knew I wanted to work with children, but she inspired me to have the drive to go for my doctorate and have my own practice.

I would also like to thank Kelly, who really showed me about the yearbook. I had never worked on one before, and she and our liason, Arnie, really showed me what it is all about.

Someone who played a big part in making my time here at FSC much easier was my best friend, Nicole LeVitre. Even with the lack of bonding between residents and commuters, she showed me where things are on campus and what was going on that I would not have known about otherwise. She got me involved in things that I definitely would not have been involved in. Through her, I have met many people that I may not have met before. It is a great feeling to be walking around campus and hear "hi," only to find out it is someone I met through her. I feel that she played a big part in making my time here fun and exciting. She was there for me whenever I needed an ear, and I for her. She doesn't know how much she means to me, and words can never express it. I am hoping our lifelong friendship will attest to that.

I would also like to thank my family; they have been instrumental in my success. My parents pushed me when needed but let me make my own decisions; when I changed majors so late in my college career they did not tell me what to do, no matter how long it took me to finish. My sister Kasten is also very proud of me, and while she may appear to be hard on me at times, she has been really helpful. I know that both of my parents are proud of what I accomplished in my college career. Finally, I would like to thank everyone who has made my long, strange trip a better experience. I am proud to say these have been the happiest years of my life.

NICOLA KENIG

The Dial would once more like to congratulate the Class of 2001 on a job well done. We wish you luck in the future...and keep in touch!!!!

The Road Not Taken

"Two roads diverged in a yellow wood,

And sorry I could not travel both

And be one traveller, long I stood

And looked down as far as I could...

Two roads diverged in a wood, and I-

I took the one less traveled by,

And that has made all the difference."
